

« altaRomAltaModa - Marella Ferrara by David Gil | Main | NYC HAS AN OVER ABUNDANCE OF VISUAL STIMULATION. STREET ART PHOTO BY WALT CESSNA NYC 09 »

TUESDAY, 03 FEBRUARY 2009

ALTAROMALTAMODA - SAVERIO PALATELLA BY DAVID GIL

Bianco is one of those Italian ambiguities where Haute Couture, normally hand made, meets the high precision 3D whole garment technology of Japanese Shimal Seiki. Industrial Couture is the concept of infinite possibilities showcased by Saverio Palatella who dared extravagant harlequin volumes in colorless cashmere yarns. Eliminating color left all creative place to extreme gigantic skillfully crafted simple forms. The legitimacy of movement of Bianco knitwear collection was inspired by a live performance of the Accademia Nazionale di Danza. The result of Saverio's harmonious vision was a new proposal of contemporary Roman fashion dance ornamented with sparkle stripes of Swarovski crystals. Bianco is a proof that Italians do it best when craftsmanship is elegantly adapted to the reality of today.

GOOGLE MY SITE

Subscribe in a reader

Enter your email address:

Subscribe

Delivered by FeedBurner

ASVOFF

AD SPACE

ARCHIVES

February 2009

January 2009

December 2008

November 2008

October 2008

September 2008

August 2008